Charles and Merrimack RiversSEEK OWNER
OF CAR FOUNDAbandoned Machine, With
Connecticut Registration
Plates, Held in LowellMay Have Close Connection With Discovery of Suitcases at Tyngsboro

The Ford touring car, for whose owner the authorities have been searching, was this afternoon eliminated from any connection with the Tyngsboro suitcase mystery. State Detective Stokes announced that the owner of the car was Edward Fuller of East Canaan, Conn., and that the car had been stolen from him. Detective Stokes said the car was found abandoned in Woburn last Monday.

While, Diver John Robinson continued his search in the Merrimack river near the Tyngsboro bridge today, for the missing head of the suitcase murder victim, search was also being made for the head in the Charles river in Boston, as a result of a story told by three Cambridge boys that they had seen a head floating in the river last Saturday noon.

Another important clue, in the minds of the officials, was the finding yesterday of an abandoned Ford touring car near Lowell, bearing Connecticut registration plates. Announcement of this fact was made exclusively in yesterday's Sun and today, District Attorney Arthur K. Reading said that a search is now being made for the owner of the car. The identity of the owner is known, but his name is withheld. The car is now somewhere in Lowell, not in a garage, the district attorney said, and the investigation along this line is in charge of State Officer Stokes.

These in charge of the investigation are withholding further information about the Ford touring car for obvious reasons, as the immature publication of certain facts might tend to hinder the work. Until the owner of the car is found and questioned, nothing will be given out.

The theory, however, is that this car might have been the carrier of the suitcases with their ghastly burdens and that they were thrown into the river from the car. When the owner is found he will be subjected to a rigid examination.

This end of the case is being handled by the state police and although the car is now somewhere in Lowell, the local police authorities have not been acquainted with the fact, because the car bore Connecticut registration plates.

At Work on Raising Local
QuotaFirst List of Contributors
Will Be Ready for Pub-

The Red Cross drive to secure Lowell's quota for Japanese relief, now well under way, commenced to gain momentum this morning and Treasurer George R. Chandler anticipated that today will produce strong contributions.

The first list of donors to the fund to aid the stricken people of Japan will be made public on Monday morning, Mr. Chandler said today. From day to day thereafter, lists of donors and amounts will be given the press.

A gratifying response is being made to the appeal and Lowell is expected to raise its quota with the same alacrity and willingness which has distinguished the city in all fund drives of the past.

Throughout Massachusetts, the fund drive today was reported to be gaining momentum and Saturday and Monday are expected to prove the two big days of the drive.

GASOLINE NOT ONE OF THE
NECESSARIES OF LIFE

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Gasoline is not one of the necessities of life, according to Attorney General Jay B.enton of Massachusetts, in an opinion handed down at the request of Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the special committee on the necessities of life. The attorney general pointed out, however, that gasoline is an important factor in the transportation of the necessities of life and that if the commission finds that the price of gasoline affects the price of such necessities, the commission might properly institute an inquiry into the sale of gasoline.

COMMITTS SUICIDE IN FIT

James J. Gallagher, Jr., of 157 Shaw street, committed suicide by hanging at his home, some time last night or early this morning. The discovery of the body, suspended from a rope in his bed room, was made by James Dwyer of 32 South Walker street, at 3:45 a.m. today. Medical Examiner Ailing was immediately notified. Despondency over failing health is given as the reason for the act.

For the past few years, Gallagher has conducted a store at the corner of Shaw and Hastings streets. He was 30 years old and single, a member of Lowell council, Knights of Columbus and the local post of the American Legion. During the World War he served in the ordnance department at Camp Morgan, N. J. He is the only son of James J. and Bridget Gallagher. The body was removed to the rooms of Undertaker M. H. McDonough Sons.

Stories of mountains that slip into their valleys, of huge waves that swept seaward hundreds of ocean bathers at coast resorts, of a Yokohama hotel that "literally sank into the earth" and of other spectacular incidents witnessed by survivors of the great disaster are being given to the world as communication in word out of Japan is gradually restored.

Dead Bodies Everywhere
The Tokio correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, reaching Kobe, says 500 foreigners were killed in Yokohama; the earthquakes and fire left the foreign residential section a mass of ruins; dead bodies were everywhere when the flames had passed. The hotels of the port city were obliterated; of the 200 guests in the Oriental Palace hotel only a few escaped. The Grand club, the Court, Cherry Mount and Hurl hotels also are wrecked with loss of life. The last three, situated on the heights, toppled into the ruins at the base of the bluff.

London hears that the number of foreign dead will approximate 100 and that half of this number are British. Secretary Hoover believes the material losses Japan have been greatly overestimated and says it is about to say that the damage will amount to five billions of dollars. Mr. Hoover points out that the principal destruction was to commercial organizations in Tokyo and that labor has not been impaired. The principal material loss, he says, has been to distribution.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 8.—Negotiations looking to an ending of the mining suspension in the anthracite fields were still under way today, Governor Pinchot was successful late yesterday in getting the leaders of the miners' union to agree to all of the terms of the proposal he made for adjusting the main points in the controversy which has shut the mines down. Mine operators had given unqualified agreement to the same terms, but there still remained the necessity of getting a settlement of minor importance.

There is every prospect that terms for getting the mines back into production will be agreed upon, it was said. There would be a necessary delay of perhaps 10 days in resuming mining operations, even should adjustment of all terms of a new wage contract be made by the representatives of both sides, union spokesmen pointed out. The probability that the anthracite suspension would be terminated arose late yesterday from Governor Pinchot's efforts. His proposal, that the miners be given a flat increase of 10 cents, that all but eight hours of day be recognized and that principal of a collective bargaining be accepted by the industry, was accepted by the miners' union committee on recommendation of Mr. Lewis.

The state committee authorized its officers to drop the demand for "check-off collection of dues" and likewise the demand for an increase of more than 10 per cent for the 100,000 day workers in the field.

Governor Pinchot's peace proposals had left aside temporarily a set of additional union demands which he, study convinced him to be of less vital importance. These were taken up last night in joint negotiations with Governor Pinchot sitting in at the sessions. By then, the union has sought additional increases for miners' widows' insurance, but the union in anthracite

FRESH PEACH DESSERTS

Although fresh peaches lack the valuable minerals found in apples, they have a definite place among the tonic fruits. Use them often while in season.

A delicate tartness is brought out in cooking peaches which makes them peculiarly satisfactory combined with rice or tapioca. A pudding of this sort precludes the use of poisons in a meal. Almost every woman likes to serve a meal once in a while that doesn't necessitate the preparation of potatoes.

Peach Cobbler is a simple, old-time dessert, economical but delicious. It should follow a light dinner or luncheon.

Peach Cobbler. Six peaches, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter. Batter—One cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons butter, water to make soft dough, 1 egg (yolk). Meringue—One egg (white), 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 dessertspoon water.

Pare and slice peaches. Put in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with sugar, dot with butter, add four or five tablespoons water and simmer, covered, while making the dough. Mix whole peaches, roll in sugar and put and sift dry ingredients. Rub in butter in the center of the rice. Pull up with tips of fingers. Lay in the corners of the cheese cloth and be used in place of butter. In this use. Put in steamer and steam for 30 minutes. Remove from squares of cloth and serve with sugar and cream or raspberry sauce.

To make the sauce use two-thirds cup of syrup from preserves, add one-third cup water. Bring to the boiling point and stir in two teaspoons corn starch moistened with cold water. Add one teaspoon butter and cook stirring constantly until thick.

Use milk instead of water. Beat egg yolk with one-quarter cup water or milk. Cut into dry ingredients with a knife. Add more water or milk as necessary to make a soft dough.

Spread over peaches and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. Turn upside down on a deep plate or pudding baking dish, cover with meringue and brown in a hot oven. The oven should be hot enough to color the meringue in four minutes.

To make meringue beat white of egg with cold water on a platter with a wire whisk until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar. This dessert should be eaten warm.

Peach Snow Balls. Four peaches, 1/4 cup sugar, 4 cups rice, 4 cups boiling salted water, 4 teaspoons red raspberry jam or preserves, sugar, butter.

Boil rice in water 20 minutes. Drain and dip in cold water. Drain.

Pare peaches, cut in halves and remove stones. Fill the cavity made by the stone with jam or preserves.

Cut four squares of cheese cloth, dip in hot water and spread with butter. Place center with a layer of rice about one-half inch thick. Fit the peaches together, making a ball, while making the dough. Mix whole peaches, roll in sugar and put and sift dry ingredients. Rub in butter in the center of the rice. Pull up with tips of fingers. Lay in the corners of the cheese cloth and be used in place of butter. In this use. Put in steamer and steam for 30 minutes. Remove from squares of cloth and serve with sugar and cream or raspberry sauce.

THEY'RE SHORTER ONLY WHEN TAILORED

The tailored ones are shorter. Ten inches from the floor for skirts, the French say, and it's probable that America will accept this decision. Since American women have held out for short skirts stubbornly season after season.

Long skirts are expected to be the favorites for all afternoon and evening wear; however, it will be the modish two and three-piece suits for early fall and winter wear that will show trim ankles. Tailored dresses, too, and shaggy topsides will be shorter.

SHOE SATIN FOIL HATS

One of the crushable little hats useful for motor and all-round fall wear is of black shoe satin. It is allover stitched and self-trimmed.

VELVET SPONSORED

The important material for the coming season is velvet. Every kind of velvet, except pile, chiffon, is shown and sponsored for both day time and evening garments.

SPORTS COATS

Large blocks, in two-toned effects, constitute one of the vivid patterns for sport coats. It is especially attractive in the golden tan and brown combination.

HAND MIRRORS

In washing hand mirrors, care should be taken that no water gets behind the glass, as the mirror will be spoiled.

KITCHEN CABINET

An old back case and a kitchen table can be converted into a kitchen cabinet by the man or woman handy with tools.

RESTORES NEWNESS

Voiles and dimities will appear much more like new material if rinsed in borax water instead of starch water.

Aluminum should never be put to soak in soda water. Any dilute acid, such as lemon, tomato, will make it bright as new.

The Looker-on In Lowell

Whether paying employees by check may not be more generally practiced is a subject which was thoroughly investigated recently by the bureau of commercial and industrial affairs of the Boston chamber of commerce. This bureau compiled a summary of experiences of establishments that have successfully employed the method of paying by check. There are doubtless many localities, it reports, where this method would be inadvisable, at least at present. Banking facilities, custom, legislation and other circumstances must, of course, be taken into consideration.

It would seem, however, that those factories which distribute thousands of dollars every pay day should be interested in this. The handling of such large sums of money entails, in some cases though probably not in Lowell, the employment of armed guards, expensive insurance, and the constant fear of a payroll robbery. Some concerns might hesitate to inaugurate payment by check because of objections from employees, but it would surely be an advantage to them because it would encourage thrift. When workers would go to a bank to cash their pay checks they would be likely to deposit part of the total.

Lowell has not had any payroll robberies of a startling nature, at least, but Boston and its surrounding cities have had. The manufacturers in Greater Boston paying by check would probably be an attractive proposition. Some of the advantages of payment by check as advanced by the Boston chamber of commerce bureau are as follows: First, there is the factor of safety. The danger of payroll robbery is removed and the employer need not fear the death or injury of any of his payroll employees or his paymaster. The safety for the employee consists in the fact that he is less likely to yield to games of chance when his pay is in check, and also in that if he loses his check a duplicate may be issued.

Incidental benefits to the employer are that the expense of insurance and protection for his paymaster is lessened and his bank balance is increased because pay checks often pass through many hands before being cashed.

Contrary to a belief that this method would entail increased expenditure in time and clerical labor, it is a fact, according to the Boston bureau, that many concerns have found paying by check reduces those items.

Employees have generally been glad to accept the plan, declares the report, particularly because it means money saved for them. The bureau summarizes the advantages of the proposed method as follows: "The encouragement to thrift, the security from loss of wages by employees, the advantages in accounting methods and the saving of clerical expense are all cogent reasons for payment by check. None of these, perhaps, would of itself induce a change from the current system. The most compelling argument is undoubtedly the assurance of safety from payroll robberies."

Advertising the Professions

A few weeks ago the Looker-on prophesied that in time members of the professions would be employing advertising as a means of building business and winning new clients. Let's consider that a little more. Because professional men and women feel the need of advertising now, it is almost a safe bet to say that advertising, possibly of a restricted nature, will be used in years to come. Lawyers, for instance, constantly employ advertising of a personal nature. Did you ever know a lawyer, filled with ambition to succeed, who did not try to enlarge his acquaintanceship? Did you ever know a lawyer vitally interested in his business, who ever failed to recognize his friends on the street and cultivate friendship with a handshake, or a good word here and there? Some men, not only lawyers, speak to everybody. Why?

Furthermore, did you ever know a lawyer who did not desire his name in the newspaper because it might be considered advertising and, therefore, a violation of the ethics of his profession? No. Lawyers wish to get their names in print as often as possible, and it is a fact that many of them enter politics with no other end

In view of building friendship and a community-wide or national reputation, lawyers will admit those facts and still their professional reason a fundamental rule which prohibits advertising! These statements apply in some measure to the other professions also. Professionals who do observe the ethical principle against advertising are not assured of success.

Advertising by doctors will probably be the last to become general. The practice of medicine is a profession which is well advertised by personal recommendation of patients to their friends. It is probably well that it should remain that way, although it is the opinion of the Looker-on that much of the untruthful advertising by quack doctors would be made unproductive if the legitimate doctors build up successful practice—through advertising, and there is no reason why the reputable physicians couldn't do the same. However, a sick person made well is the best advertisement for any doctor. Lawyers cannot depend upon such word-of-mouth advertising doctors receive because a person in legal difficulties will not generally disclose the fact to his friends.

Straight advertising methods are fast creeping into the dental profession and it will probably be the case with the professions to yield completely to "salesmanship in print." We will not discuss here the standing in a community which advertising dentists have, but suffice it to say that the fact that they are increasing in number throughout the country would seem to indicate a trend toward general advertising.

Nothing the Matter With Lowell

Several months ago the Looker-on clipped an article concerning a city out west entitled "Nothing the Matter with 'Hometown' Except," and giving the following story:

"Too many of us got up in the morning by the alarm of a Connecticut clock, button a pair of Ohio suspenders to Chicago trousers; put on a pair of shoes made in Boston; wash in a Pittsburgh tin basin, using Cincinnati soap and a cotton towel made in New Hampshire; sit down to a Grand Rapids table; eat pancakes made from Minneapolis flour, and gargle Kansas City bacon fried on a St. Louis stove; buy fruit put up in California or New York, seasoned with Rhode Island spices; wear a hat made in Philadelphia, hitch a Mississippi mule, fed on Iowa corn, or a Detroit auto filled with Texas oil and if we're farmers, work like hell all day on a farm covered with Florida fertilizer and a Connecticut mortgage."

"Not only that, but we send our fire insurance money to San Francisco, Hartford, London and Shanghai, and at night crawl under a New Jersey blanket and are kept awake by a dog or a cat the only home products around."

Of course this is overdrawn, but it brings out a moral of "Tangle at Home first" in a humorous vein. It shows further how interdependent all our cities and states are for subsistence and the general necessities of life.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND

What is probably one of the best moving picture productions ever presented to a Lowell audience will be seen at the Strand Theatre all of next week, beginning with a matinee tomorrow afternoon. Two famous stage successes will be presented in the different bookings and that alone is sufficient to warrant a stellar performance.

For the first four days, beginning with the Sunday matinee, the feature attraction will be "The Broken Wing," which reproduces ray, thriller, and sword romance, and the running attraction has "The Lonely Road," with Katherine Macdonald in the leading role. "Uncle Ben's Gift," a Gump comedy and the "International News" will help to complete the program for the first four days.

For the latter part of the week, beginning with the Thursday matinee, there is "Within the Law," a production which had originally been booked at the theatre for seven days but which was changed to the three-day limit because of the Strand policy of changing shows recently adopted. This is a picture which might well run the full week in any theatre and those fortunate enough to witness its showing in Lowell will come away singing its praises in no uncertain manner.

It is rarely that one finds the combination of attractions that are to be found in the production, "The Broken Wing." It is the first version of the well-known stage play which enjoyed many years before Broadway audiences and in it there are such stars as Kenneth Harlan, Miriam Cooper, Walter Long, Miss Dalton, Richard Tucker and Edwin J. Brady. It was produced under the direction of Tom Forman.

The story gets away to a spectacular beginning when Philip Marvin, rich New Yorker, undertakes a record air flight. Near the Mexican border the plane goes wrong, he is thrown out of the cockpit and his machine drops into the home of Juan Villera, a Spanish man, who has given the power to his days to make a fortune with an American husband. Action develops rapidly and we would spoil your conception of the story if we told you any more about it.

"The Lonely Road," which is Katherine Macdonald's starring vehicle, provides a delightful contrast from the running attraction, inasmuch as it is a drama in which the beautiful actress is seen at her very best. This is a dramatic picture of a woman whose husband believes she should be of the flimsy vine type, have no domestic responsibility and little personal liberty.

In the features for the three last days of the week the production, "Within the Law," stands foremost among all others. Tomorrow is the star in this great attraction and she is supported by a fine cast under the direction of Frank Lloyd. Miss Taliga is depicted as an advanced woman, an endeavoring to "get even" with an unjust employer who sent her to jail for a theft which she did not commit, and her role is so done in such a way through many emotional scenes which the big star fills with great dramatic power.

Other week-end feature is entitled "Man's Size," in which William Russell is seen as a man's man. It is a Fox production introducing a second of the frozen north in which an explorer returns unexpectedly to find that he had been reported dead and that his wife had married an intriguing partner. Russell carries his part with great skill and is again admired for the red-blooded manner in which he shines.

She has made him to have faith in the power of the Lord and this faith saves them from destruction of a community which had abandoned him.

Of course, the biggest thrill in "The Town That God Forgot" comes when the big flood and storm scene is shown. It is without question the greatest storm and flood scene ever shown in any studio or screen. In this picture it is swept away before the audience's eyes.

The New York Review, one of the most critical papers, says: "The most realistic storm and flood scene ever presented upon the screen broke loose at the Astor theatre this week when William Fox for the first time presented the new Harry Millarde production, 'The Town That God Forgot.' The first picture of this company ever produced. The scene verily swept all the spectators from their seats. This storm and flood scene is the crowning achievement of the way of spectacular water and storm effects ever shown on the screen."

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Stan Stanley will come from the Audience Next Week and will Entertain in Goodly Style

"The Virginia Jumper" will hold the four twelve tomorrow at the B. F. Keith theatre, giving the inevitable presentations of imitations of "The Water Warlock" comedy, Virginia, and also a choice collection of others, selected from his troupe about the world. The picture is none other than Walter C. Kelly, famous vaudeville. The remainder of the day's bill will consist of Sonia Moran, Miss Jason and Harrigan, Corrigan and Waters, Daisy Spooner & Co., and a special feature picture.

Stan Stanley is coming back to us next week, after an absence of five years. He will flow in on this town like a wood healthy breeze, and what he says and does will serve as a tonic. For Stan Stanley has an original manner about him. Somewhat spasmodic in his comedy, he may be called upon to do the musical and unexpected. He is a comedian par excellence, with something happening every minute that he is on the stage. Arthur Devoy & Co., including Miss Evelyn Faber, will offer "Mother's Diary," a vaudeville novelty which has a musical touch to it. This evening holds a moral lesson with a

COOLIDGES WILL HAVE NO SOCIAL GAETIES AT WHITE HOUSE TILL NEW YEAR

Contest on For Presidency of the Senate—With Cummins, Moses and Curtis the Probabilities—No Sign Yet of Extra Session of Congress—President Coolidge Follows Wise Old Owl Policy—Congressional Delegation Visiting Europe Expected to Give Congress Conflicting Views on Conditions Abroad

Special to The Sun
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 8.—The 30 days of official mourning for the late President Harding ended Monday; those again by at full staff from the White House, the capital and all other government buildings, and other reservations. President Coolidge's members of his cabinet and the White House staff have removed the black bands from the sleeves; Mrs. Coolidge will again don grief and the outward semblance of grief at the death of their friend and chief will be a thing of the past from now on. But in their hearts, as well as in the hearts of thousands who know and loved him well, no less, his memory will be remembered. "The loss is great, long live the King," we are told that the White House will observe no formal grief after the New Year. This is quite in keeping with the fine instincts and unselfishness of the Coolidges. When the time comes they will open the doors of the White House wide with cordial welcome to the official circle and Mrs. Coolidge will enter untroubled as a hostess whose charm, tact, good taste and warmheartedness are everywhere recognized. That the Coolidges do not possess the kind of social gaiety which is well shown from the fact that John and young Calvin spent their vacation "exactly as did sons of men unknown to time. They worked respectively in the hay fields as a farm hand and took the hardships of intensive training at Camp Devens. The president's father said this week: "My son always finished whatever work he began. I never had to remind him to do so or tell him the same thing twice. He will do that sort of a job now. It is just as the president himself has said, his motto in life is 'Do the day's work' and he is living up to it by keeping his desk clear and running work, even in the stress of these strenuous and troublesome days. The only danger seems to be that the country will expect him to accomplish the impossible by performing miracles or otherwise.

will be elected to that high office unless the wave of jealousy now flooding the country over New England's prestige and power in national affairs, sweeps his chances away. Senator Curtis of Kansas, now assistant floor leader to Senator Lodge, would probably be the one to win out. Moses and Curtis are the two personal friends, and it would be a case of sectionalism only if they were pitted against each other, for their senatorial friends and supporters belong to the same class and type of men. Not only does New England carry off the cream of committee positions, the speakership of the house, and the leadership of the senate, but in addition to the president, it has the secretary of war, Mr. Weeks, Mr. Taft of Connecticut is chief justice of the supreme court, Mr. Brandeis and Mr. Holmes of Massachusetts on the supreme bench, and a great number of lesser but important federal offices are held by New Englanders, all of which may tend to displace Mr. Gillette in his reelection to the speakership and also Mr. Moses, when it comes to selecting a president of the senate. But that the latter is the best qualified man in the senate to rule over it during the turbulent days that are sure to come in the 68th congress, is not disputed.

Incidentally, it may be interesting to know that the president of the senate gets the full vice presidential salary, which is $12,000 a year, and that he is furnished with an automobile, chauffeur, etc. Moreover, his power in congress is exactly the same as that of a duly elected vice president of the United States.

Simple Life of Coolidges
President and Mrs. Coolidge are living the simple life, even though now installed in the White House with its surroundings of servants and splendid surroundings. Simple, New England manners are served. Humble, but patterned after good old-fashioned, small towns in New England, as far as it is possible to do so. And there is no burning of the midnight oil by the presidential family. When the clock strikes 10 it is said to be quiet and the sacred man has closed presidential eyes with the same seals Eugene Field so delightfully describes in his child poems.

No Extra Session
No one seems to expect an extra session of congress, though of course calling it early is not one of the impossibilities. In fact, what everybody has intimated what President Coolidge will do, except Mr. Coolidge himself, who still adheres pretty closely to his famous "wise old owl" motto.

Congress Delegation in Europe
So many of the Massachusetts congressional delegation have been overseas this summer, that they will be authorized on the real condition of affairs in Europe. It will be interesting to note what Senator David I. Walsh and Congressman Rogers have to say on the subject, viewing the situation, as they do, from opposite political viewpoints.

The case of Barney Banks of Lowell, charged with the murder of Police Officer Arthur J. Bower of Methuen on the Lawrence-Lowell boulevard, will be presented to the Essex county grand jury when that body convenes for the fall sitting in the Lawrence court house next Monday.

Banks is still confined at the Lawrence jail. It was at first deemed advisable to remove him to the Danvers state hospital where he would be placed under observation, but later plans were changed.

Since the clues that were taken up in Lowell proved to be groundless, there have been no material developments in the investigation of the shooting of the police officer, and the work is now practically at a standstill.

Mary Garden Comes to Lowell Oct. 1

MARY GARDEN

For its third season in Lowell, the star concert series, which already has presented Galli-Curci, Geraldine Farrer, Sergei Rachmaninoff, John Gounod, Arthur Middleton, the Boston symphony orchestra, and Fritz Kreisler twice, announces Mary Garden for its opening concert.

Monday, October first, is the date set for the concert at the Memorial Auditorium for the famous prima donna. Appearing with her is a Russian violinist, who is highly regarded as a virtuoso in his own right. The program is to include numbers in which he will play an obbligato.

Mary Garden has been described as the most famous woman in the music world today. With collaboration she is the highest salaried woman in opera. Their fee is the same, $250 for each performance. Twice during last winter's Boston season of the "Chicago" opera company, the name of her name brought capacity houses to the opera. They were the only two capacity houses of the engagement and the box office receipts were $14,000 and more each night.

"Mary Garden," writes one critic of the opera and concert world in reviewing the history of both for the last 25 years:—

"They have given up the attempt to describe her, so they simply call her 'Our Mary.'"

"Our Mary" she is for the American people. She dawned upon America as a new sensation, and she has been radiating new sensations ever since. Her art is so original and many added that it is constantly presenting a novel, surprising aspect. Such art is genius.

PLAN TO SNAP PHOTO OF SUN

Scientists Have Waited Two Years for Eclipse of Next Monday

Will Last But a Few Seconds More Than Three Full Minutes

BY JACK JUNGMEYER
N.E.A. Service Writer

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 8.—When on Monday "the moon swallows the sun," as a solar eclipse was once fearfully interpreted, the mysteries of the sun's halo or corona will be probed by the most powerful astronomical instruments ever assembled for such an event.

Along the path of total shadow, sweeping across the Pacific skirting the extreme southwestern edge of California and on through Mexico, a dozen famous observatories have established field stations. The eclipse will last slightly more than three minutes in any spot, and elaborate rehearsals and precautions have been made to make the most of the precious seconds.

It is during such brief intervals, often spaced years apart in civilization, that the astronomical world has a chance to make records of the sun's gaseous outer envelope, then clearly distinguishable from the main solar body which is screened by the moon.

And it is from such records that valuable additions are being made to the scientific story of the universe and of human life on this little grain of syzygy dust.

Outer Envelope Mysterious

The exact nature of the sun's outer envelope has yet to be definitely determined, and the present eclipse will be utilized chiefly for that purpose, just as the one last year, observed in Australia, was studied chiefly as a test of the Einstein theory of curved stellar light. Extending some two and a half million miles from the sun's surface, more or less at different periods, is this gaseous substance, unlike anything on earth. It has heat and luminosity.

Several instruments never before trained upon the corona during an eclipse are to be employed by the Mt. Wilson observatory field staff at San Diego, such as the interferometer and the radiometer, the latter so delicately sensitive to heat that it would react to a candlelight 5000 miles distant.

It is unlikely that anything of an immediate popular interest will be determined, but the expected new data on the constitution, size, density, heat radiation, rate and direction of revolution of the sun's halo will eventually filter through the science sieve to the public eye.

While astronomers ply their instruments at San Diego, Catalina, Escondido and points in Mexico, chickens and animals will go to sleep at midday of Sept. 10. Stars will be visible in the path of artificial night, and ordinary spectators, trained in observation and shielded glasses, may momentarily catch that ancient terror which once hurried men prostrate under the eerie gloom.

Make Elaborate Preparations

The most complete set of instruments will be worked by the Mount Wilson representatives at San Diego, Catalina and Escondido, near San Diego. The Mt. Wilson instruments all mounted on one revolving table, include direct photograph telescopes, spectrographs, interferometer and radiometer. At the instant the moon's surface begins to launch itself into the temporary mid-day night, marking man's first attempt to fly into solar phenomena of this kind by means of his newest ally of the sun.

In the cockpit of the machine when it takes off at Escondido field will be two intrepid players, Lieut. John A. Mearns, holder of the world's altitude record, and Capt. A. W. Stevens, an expert aerial photographer.

They have been commissioned to take the ship to a height of 20,000 feet or more in an effort to secure distinctive photographs of the solar corona and the shadow of the moon as it moves across the face of the earth at the tremendous speed of 25 miles a minute.

To do this Capt. Stevens will use an exceedingly fast camera, loaded with the fastest negatives obtainable, and since the total eclipse will last for a period of but three minutes and 36 seconds, the two flyers will be required to work rapidly, surrounded by stygian darkness.

COLUMBUS GIRL "MISS AMERICA"

Miss Mary Campbell, Wins
Beauty Contest for Second
Consecutive Year

Adjudget Queen of 75 Fair
Contestants in Atlantic City
Contest

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 8.—Miss Mary Campbell of Columbus, O., today landed in the knowledge that her beauty had been judged of the annual fall beauty contest the right to wear for the second consecutive year the title of Miss America, queen of 75 fair contestants from as many cities.

Miss Campbell, 17, with a winning smile, golden brown hair and an athletic grace of form, swept everything before her when she walked down the aisle in a one-piece orange bathing suit, by the judges' box on the million dollar pier.

While the bathing suit parade was but one of three tests, all of which were to count in the final judgment, the judges quickly waived formalities when Miss Campbell appeared, although she had no place in either the college girls' parade or evening gown exhibitions of charm.

The victory was the second in succession for the Columbus maiden. Miss Ethel Kinnin of Brooklyn, Miss Heather Eubank Walker of Coney Island, Miss Charlotte Nash of St. Louis, and Miss Marian Green of Philadelphia were the runners-up.

Dead Bodies Everywhere. Continued. In Japan. He was officially assigned as the acting commercial attaché at Tokyo.

FEARS FOR SAFETY OF BROTHER IN JAPAN. Mrs. George Lestrade of this city fears her brother, Joseph J. Lestrade of Cambridge, may have lost his life in the Japan catastrophe. He was in the employ of the Eastman Kodak Co. and was supposed to be in NIKKO at the time of the earthquake.

Crazed Mothers Call Children. OSAKA, Sept. 5. (By the Associated Press, Delayed.)—In Tokyo about half a million refugees were encamped around the imperial palace today. A countless host of refugees formed a line two miles long, each to receive one piece of rice ball. For many hours the line moved forward monotonously, its length seemingly undiminished.

Crazed mothers were calling the names of lost children. Fathers of missing children hoisted placards giving the names and addresses that little ones might, perhaps, be returned to them.

Troops were speeding the construction of stacks and were providing to the best of their means provisions and clothing.

Profiteers are being severely punished. Yet, at some places, a single one piece of rice ball at eighty sen (about 10 cents). Arrival of the American Asiatic fleet with relief was awaited eagerly.

Order was being restored gradually in Tokyo and Yokohama, but such necessities as shelter, railroads, clothing and food were extremely scarce.

A number of the staff of the Tokyo newspaper Asahi, who has just arrived, says that between Hiroshima and Osaka, stations on the Tokaido railway, he saw a wrecked train in which passengers had been killed, including an American aide-de-camp, and two German embassy secretaries.

The newspaperman said the fire did not reach the upper section of Tokyo, but that all electric lights out, and the water supply was also shut off, but it was believed it could be restored within a few days.

Refugees Destitute. Immensely the news of the disaster reached neighboring cities. Surgeons, physicians and nurses began to receive relief calls.

Hundreds of refugees who fled from Tokyo and Yokohama by rail and water are reaching here daily and the problem of caring for them is taxing the ingenuity of the authorities. Most of them are virtually destitute.

Relief Fund Grows. WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—As the American Red Cross pressed forward relief measures today for the Japanese earthquake sufferers, the nation continued to swell its relief fund. Early tabulation today showed the total having the half way mark of the $5,000,000 minimum sought.

In connection with relief fund contributions, the bureau of internal revenue pointed out in a statement today that under the revenue act of 1921 those may be deducted by an individual in computing his next taxable income. An individual member of a partnership also may deduct his proportionate share of the contribution made by the partnership. In both cases, the deduction for total charitable donations is limited to 15 per cent of the taxpayer's net income.

ROUTINE SESSION OF DISTRICT COURT

"You'll never see me again, Judge," were the parting words of James P. McCormick in district court this morning when a three months' sentence for drunkenness was suspended for six months. McCormick promised to take the pledge and abstain from alcoholic beverages in the future. He was arrested last night by Officer Arthur Dwyer on the complaint of his wife who testified this morning that he was "cutting her to death."

"Cutting her to death, I would rather starve than put up with him," she added, but consented to give him one more chance to keep the pledge and stayed away from her house.

Frank Zagak also received a suspended sentence of six months for drunkenness. His wife told the court that he had been drinking continually of late and that he abused her unmercifully at times. She desired that he be committed to jail, but in view of the fact that it was his first offense, the suspended sentence was imposed.

For operating an automobile without a license, Allen M. Spenser was fined $10. A finding of not guilty was returned in the case of George R. Kirtledge of Lawrence, charged with operating without a registration.

John Michelin was ordered discharged when Federal Officer John Hall withdrew a complaint of threatening. On August 12, the officer went to Michelin's house with a search warrant when Michelin pointed a gun at him and threatened to shoot.

Charges of breaking and entering and larceny, preferred against Edmund J. Tasson, were continued until Sept. 15. Added Lafroniere for drunkenness was continued until Oct. 1. On an illegal keeping charge, William Lawler was granted a continuance until next Saturday.

For repeated neighboring cities, surgeons, physicians and nurses began to receive relief calls. Hundreds of refugees who fled from Tokyo and Yokohama by rail and water are reaching here daily and the problem of caring for them is taxing the ingenuity of the authorities. Most of them are virtually destitute.

NOT TO LOCATE IN NO. CAROLINA

Appleton Co. Believed to
Have Allowed Building
Options to Lapse

News Gladly Received by
Textile Workers in This
City

Word reached Lowell from Winston-Salem, N. C., today by indirect route through New York, that the Appleton mills of this city have given up plans of locating in the vicinity of Asheville.

According to reports, options on several mills in the locality, taken by the Appleton corporation some time ago, have been permitted to expire without action this past week. The report that the options were open to extension and this privilege was not seized upon is taken to infer the Appleton has given up all plans of locating in the south.

Reports from Winston-Salem state that the Appleton has retained an option on one mill in Henderson county. In local circles the belief is expressed that this one option is held as a threat while in some quarters the attitude is taken that this option was probably originally taken for a longer period than the other options and will also be permitted to expire when the option period elapses.

John Hanley, president of the Lowell labor council and member of the executive board of the United Textile Workers of America, declined to comment until he has a more definite knowledge of the situation. He had been advised of the report that the Appleton options had been permitted to expire without action and said he might have a statement to make Monday. He thought it would be more fitting for the public to first hear what the Appleton heads cared to say provided they desired to comment.

Labor men view the news with pleasure and held that it shows the Appleton company, after an exhaustive investigation covering all details, has decided that no ultimate profit would result in moving south or in starting mills in the south. The fact that regardless of present conditions in any state or territory, labor will follow capital into the south, is held by them to be an important factor in the decisions of northern mill men as affects entry into the south.

Elmer L. Bowen, agent for the Appleton mill, was interviewed by a reporter for The Sun this morning and declined to comment on the report.

"I couldn't say anything. I don't know anything about it," said Mr. Bowen. "But that you mean the matter is handled entirely by the treasurer of the concern from the Boston office?" he was asked.

"Why, yes. Anything to be said would come from the treasurer," he replied. "I can't say anything because I don't know about it."

For operating an automobile without a license, Allen M. Spenser was fined $10. A finding of not guilty was returned in the case of George R. Kirtledge of Lawrence, charged with operating without a registration.

John Michelin was ordered discharged when Federal Officer John Hall withdrew a complaint of threatening. On August 12, the officer went to Michelin's house with a search warrant when Michelin pointed a gun at him and threatened to shoot.

Charges of breaking and entering and larceny, preferred against Edmund J. Tasson, were continued until Sept. 15. Added Lafroniere for drunkenness was continued until Oct. 1. On an illegal keeping charge, William Lawler was granted a continuance until next Saturday.

For repeated neighboring cities, surgeons, physicians and nurses began to receive relief calls. Hundreds of refugees who fled from Tokyo and Yokohama by rail and water are reaching here daily and the problem of caring for them is taxing the ingenuity of the authorities. Most of them are virtually destitute.

Relief Fund Grows. WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—As the American Red Cross pressed forward relief measures today for the Japanese earthquake sufferers, the nation continued to swell its relief fund. Early tabulation today showed the total having the half way mark of the $5,000,000 minimum sought.

In connection with relief fund contributions, the bureau of internal revenue pointed out in a statement today that under the revenue act of 1921 those may be deducted by an individual in computing his next taxable income. An individual member of a partnership also may deduct his proportionate share of the contribution made by the partnership. In both cases, the deduction for total charitable donations is limited to 15 per cent of the taxpayer's net income.

GREAT AIR FROLIC IN HUB

More Than 50 Planes Assembled for Opening of Boston's
New Air Port

One of Greatest Demonstrations of Aviation Since the World War

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—More than 50 aircraft were assembled here today for the official opening of Boston's new air port and what was expected to be one of the greatest demonstrations of aviation since the war. About 40 planes arrived yesterday and others came in this morning at Jeffries Point, East Boston, where the landing field is located.

Most remarkable of the flights to Boston was that of Lieut. Hogenberger from Dayton, O., to Boston, who negotiated the 70 miles in 7 hours, 35 minutes in heavy weather. From the Ohio river to the Hudson the ground was not sighted.

Another noteworthy feature was the performance of a United States mail airplane which flew 200 miles from Ithaca, N. Y., to East Boston in 2 hours. It landed beside a mail truck and Pilot Jones tossed a bag of mail into it which was rushed to the post-office in 20 minutes.

The weather was calm but rather cloudy for the events on the program for the day, including a race for speedy planes to Nashua, N. H., Worcester, Providence and back to the air port.

Four of the five army planes which left Mitchell field early today arrived at the airport shortly before 10 o'clock. The pilots said that the fifth was not far behind.

The mystery race, on the program was explained when it was announced that it would be a race to Marshfield and return to the airport by way of Danvers, a distance of about 45 miles. Airplanes went over this course early in the day and established an average time which was kept secret. The winner of the race will be the pilot who comes nearest to this average time.

SUE ESTATE OF W. M. WOOD, JR. BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Charles J. McCarthy and Patrick McGovern, a corporation doing business under the name of Charles J. McCarthy & Co., have filed an action of contract to recover $25,000 from the estate of the late William M. Wood, Jr., William M. Wood, Sr., father of the deceased, and Cornelius A. Wood, executors of the estate, being named.

The suit is to recover damages to an automobile owned by the plaintiffs which was in a collision with the automobile of the deceased on the Andover turnpike in Reading on Aug. 15, 1922, when young Wood lost his life.

The plaintiff's declaration sets forth that an automobile owned by them and driven by an agent was struck by an automobile owned and operated by the deceased defendant, the latter driving negligently and recklessly. Plaintiffs further declare that their automobile was damaged and rendered worthless.

Another so-called important clue in the Tyngsboro suitcase mystery fell at this afternoon when state police officers eliminated from the case a Ford touring car, with Connecticut registration plates, which was at first thought might have been used as a carrier of the suitcases with portions of the dismembered body of the woman.

It was at first reported that this car was found outside Lowell, but this afternoon State Detective Stokes when reached by phone in East Cambridge, said that he had just completed an investigation which eliminated the car. The owner of the car is Edward Pol-er of East Canaan, Conn., and it was learned that the car had been stolen from him and was found abandoned in Woburn last Monday.

The findings of this lead, like all the others so far investigated by the authorities, has redoubled the energy in connection with the search for the missing head of the victim. While Diver John Robinson was searching in the Merrimack river in the vicinity of the Tyngsboro bridge today, a search was also being made in the Charles river in Boston, where it was reported three boys had seen a woman's head floating last Saturday noon. The three boys were closely questioned by District Attorney Arthur K. Reardon at his office in the East Cambridge courthouse this morning, after which the district attorney said that he believed their story, and ordered a thorough search to be made in the river.

Believes Head in Merrimack

While the district attorney places credence in the story of the boys, who told it to their parents last Saturday evening before the news of the finding of the first suitcase in Tyngsboro had been published, he is still inclined to the belief that the head and abdomen of the woman were disposed of in the same way as the torso, arms and legs. State Detective Edward O'Neil is being kept constantly on the scene in Tyngsboro, therefore, directing the work of the river.

The district attorney also announced this afternoon that Medical Examiner Macgrath of Suffolk county, who has had a wide experience, had been called into the case and that an examination of the parts of the woman already found. The official's reason for this act is because of his desire to adopt every means at his disposal in an attempt to find something tangible that will lead to a solution of the case.

The Red Cross drive to secure Lowell's quota for Japanese relief, now well under way, commenced to gain momentum this morning and Treasurer George R. Chandler anticipates that today will produce strong contributions.

The first list of donors to the fund to aid the stricken people of Japan will be made public on Monday morning, Mr. Chandler said today. From day to day thereafter, lists of donors and amounts will be given in the press.

A gratifying response is being made to the appeal and Lowell is expected to raise its quota with the same alacrity and willingness which has distinguished the city in all fund drives of the past.

Throughout Massachusetts, the fund drive today was reported to be gaining momentum and Saturday and Monday are expected to prove the two big days of the drive.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Sept. 8.—Sixty-nine consecutive hours' duty on the bridge was the difficult test of endurance met by Commandore Hayes of the White Star liner Majestic on her voyage ending here today. The vessel required six days and two hours to cross from New York due to bad weather. For three days and 12 hours it passed through a thick fog, a phenomenon at this time of the year. The master was on his bridge from 9 o'clock Tuesday night until six o'clock Friday evening when the ship anchored at Cherbourg.

The safety of additional Americans caught in the earthquake was established today in a message to the state department from Counsel Davis at Shanghai, transmitting verified reports gathered by Consul Dickover at Kobe.

FULL AGREEMENT ON TERMS TO REOPEN ANTHRACITE MINES

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 8. (By the A. P.).—A wage contract whose completion and ratification will insure resumption of anthracite mining at an early date was more than half written at noon today, when operators and miners temporarily reached an agreement on practically all issues which have separated the two groups.

John L. Lewis, the union president, notified members of his scale committee to hold themselves in readiness for assembly this evening to take the first step in giving a contract union approval.

A recess was taken until 2:30 p.m. "I can say, with great satisfaction, that the negotiations are making rapid progress," Governor Pinchot announced. "Agreement has been reached on a large number of points at issue. There is every prospect for a completion of the work in the near future."

One of the conclusions of the joint conference, the governor indicated, affected the status of miners' laborers, a group for which the union has sought increased pay.

The governor also remarked that

Stories of mountains that slip into their valleys, of huge waves that swept seaward hundreds of ocean bathers at coast resorts, of a Yokohama hotel that "literally sank into the earth" and of other spectacular incidents witnessed by survivors of the great disaster are being given to the world in communication in and out of Japan is gradually restored.

Dead Bodies Everywhere

The Tokio correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, reaching Kobe, says 500 foreigners were killed in Yokohama; the earthquakes and fire left the foreign residential section a mass of ruins; dead bodies were everywhere when the flames had passed. The hotels of the port city were obliterated; of the 250 guests in the Oriental Palace hotel only a few escaped. The United Club, the Court, Cherry Mount and Japan hotels also are wrecked with loss of life. The last three, situated on the heights, toppled into the ruins at the base of the bluff.

Great Mountain Slides

Thomas D. Cochran, an American motion picture man, was at Miyano-shita, a mountain resort, with his family, when the first quakes came. Great slides occurred in the mountains, he said, roads were wiped out, houses demolished.

In Tokio, 135,000 persons are without shelter, but order prevails. There are no further rumors of cholera. The toll in the capital was "not as large as first reported," according to the first message sent over the re-established Tokyo-Kobe line. Probably 10,000 people lost their lives in the upland section, most of which was spared.

Foreigners Killed

London hears that the number of foreign dead will approximate 100 and that half of this number are British. Secretary Hoover believes the material losses in Japan have been greatly overestimated and says it is absurd to say that the damage will amount to five billions of dollars. Mr. Hoover points out that the principal destruction was to commercial organizations in Tokio and that labor has not been impaired. The principal material loss, he says, has been to distribution.

Sister Mary's KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
FRESH PEACH DESSERTS
Although fresh peaches lack the valuable minerals found in apples, they have a definite place among the tonic fruits. Use them often while in season.
A delicate tartness is brought out in cooking peaches which makes them peculiarly satisfactory combined with rice or tapioca. A pudding of this sort precludes the use of potatoes in a meal. Almost every woman likes to serve a meal once in a while that doesn't necessitate the preparation of potatoes.
Peach cobbler is a simple, old-time dessert, economical but delicious. It should follow a light dinner or luncheon.
Peach Cobbler
Six peaches, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter. Batter—One cup flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 2 tablespoons butter, water to make soft dough, 1 egg (yolk). Meringue—one egg (white), 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon water.
Pare and slice peaches. Put in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle with sugar, dot with butter, add four cups water and simmer, cover. While making the dough mix and sift dry ingredients. Roll in butter with tips of fingers. Lay out and use in place of butter. In this case use milk instead of water. Beat egg yolk with one-quarter cup water or milk. Cut into dry ingredients with a knife. Add more water or milk as necessary to make a soft dough.
Spread over peaches and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. Turn upside down on a deep pie or pudding baking dish, cover with meringue and bake in a hot oven. The oven should be hot enough to color the meringue in four minutes.
To make meringue beat white of egg with cold water on a platter with a wire whisk until stiff and dry. Beat in sugar. This dessert should be eaten warm.
Peach Snow Balls
Four peaches, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 cup rice, 1 cup boiling salted water, 1 teaspoon red raspberry jam or preserves, sugar, butter.
Boil rice in water 20 minutes. Drain and dip in cold water. Drain. Pare peaches, cut in halves and remove stones. Fill the cavity made by the stone with jam or preserves. Cut four squares of cheese cloth, dip in hot water and spread with butter. Cover center with a layer of sugar. Fit the peaches together, making whole peaches, roll in sugar and put in the center of the rice. Pull up the corners of the cheese cloth and tie. Put in steamer and steam for 30 minutes. Remove from squares of cloth and serve with sugar and cream of raspberry sauce.
To make the sauce use two-thirds cup of syrup from preserves, add one-third cup water. Bring to the boiling point and stir in two teaspoons corn starch moistened with cold water. Add one teaspoon butter and cook stirring constantly until thick.

THEY'RE SHORTER ONLY WHEN TAILORED

The tailored ones are shorter. Tan jackets from the floor for skirts, the French say, and it's probable that America will accept this decision, since American women have held out for short skirts stubbornly season after season.
Long skirts are expected to be the favorites for all afternoon and evening wear; however, it will be the modest two and three-piece suits for early fall and winter wear that will show trim ankles. Tailored dresses, too, and shaggy topcoats will be shorter.

SHOE SATIN FOR HATS

One of the crushable little hats useful for motor and all-round fall wear is of black shoe satin. It is all-over stitched and self-trimmed.

VELVET SPONSORED

The important material for the coming season is velvet. Every kind of velvet, erect, pile, chiffon, is shown and sponsored for both day time and evening garments.

SPORTS COATS

Large blocks in two-toned effects constitute one of the vivid patterns for sports coats. It is especially attractive in the golden tan and brown combination.

HAND MIRRORS

In washing hand mirrors, care should be taken that no water gets behind the glass, as the mirror will be spoiled.

KITCHEN CABINET

An old look once and a kitchen table can be converted into a kitchen cabinet by the man or woman handy with tools.

RESTORES NEWNESS

Voiles and dimities will appear much more like new material if rinsed in borax water instead of starch water.

Aluminum should never be put to soak in soda water. Any dilute acid, rhubarb, lemon, tomato, will make it bright as new.

The Looker-on In Lowell

Whether paying employees by check may not be more generally practiced is a subject which was thoroughly investigated recently by the bureau of commercial and industrial affairs of the Boston chamber of commerce. This bureau compiled a summary of experiences of establishments that have successfully employed the method of paying by check. There are doubtless many localities. It reports, where this method would be inadvisable at present. Banking facilities, custom, legislation and other circumstances must, of course, be taken into consideration.
It would seem, however, that these factories which distribute thousands of dollars every day should be interested in this. The handling of such large sums of money entails, in some cases though probably not in Lowell, the employment of armed guards, expensive insurance, and the constant fear of a payroll robbery. Some concerns might hesitate to in- adequate payment by check because of objections from employees, but it would surely be an advantage to them because it would encourage thrift. When workers would go to a bank to cash their pay checks they would be likely to deposit part of the total.
Lowell has not had any payroll robberies of a startling nature, at least, but Boston and its surrounding cities have had. To manufacturers in Greater Boston paying by check would probably be an attractive proposition. Some of the advantages of payment by check as advanced by the Boston chamber of commerce bureau are as follows: First, there is the factor of safety. The danger of payroll robbery is removed and the employee need not fear the death or injury of any of his payroll employees, or his paymaster. The safety for the employee consists in the fact that he is less likely to yield to games of chance when his pay is in check, and also in that if he loses his check a duplicate may be issued.
Incidental benefits to the employer are that the expense of insurance and protection for his paymaster is lessened and his bank balance is increased because pay checks often pass through many hands before being cashed.
Contrary to a belief that this method would entail increased expenditure in time and clerical labor, it is a fact, according to the Boston bureau, that many concerns have found paying by check reduces those items.
Employees have generally been glad to accept the plan, declares the report, particularly because it means money saved for them.
The bureau summarizes the advantages of the proposed method as follows: "The encouragement to thrift, the security from loss of wages by employee, the advantages in accounting methods and the saving of clerical expense are all cogent reasons for payment by check. None of these, perhaps, would of itself induce a change from the current system. The most compelling argument is undoubtedly the assurance of safety from payroll robberies."

Advertising the Professions

A few weeks ago the Looker-On prophesied that in time members of the professions would be employing advertising as a means of building business and winning new clients. Let's consider that a little more. Because professional men and women feel the need of advertising now, it is almost a safe bet to say that advertising, possibly of a restricted nature, will be used in years to come. Lawyers, for instance, constantly employ advertising of a personal nature. Did you ever know a lawyer, filled with ambition to succeed, who did not try to enlarge his acquaintanceship? Did you ever know a lawyer who, ever interested in his business, who ever failed to recognize his friends on the street and cultivate friendship with a handshake, or a good word here and there? Some men, not only lawyers, speak to everybody. Why?
Furthermore, did you ever know a lawyer who did not desire his name in the newspaper because it might be considered advertising? No. Lawyers wish to force a relation of the office of his profession? No. Lawyers wish to get their names in print as often as possible, and it is a fact that many of them enter politics with no other end that they are increasing in number throughout the country would seem to indicate a trend toward general advertising.

Nothing the Matter With Lowell
Several months ago the Looker-On clipped an article concerning a city out west entitled "Nothing the Matter With 'Hometown' Except" and giving the following story:
"Too many of us get up in the morning by the alarm of a Connecticut clock, button a pair of Ohio suspenders to Chicago trousers; put on a pair of shoes made in Boston; wash in a Pittsburgh tin basin, using Cincinnati soap and a cotton towel made in New Hampshire; sit down to a Grand Rapids table; eat panaches made from Minneapolis flour, and a canned Kansas City bacon fried on a St. Louis stove; buy fruit put up in California or New York, seasoned with Rhode Island spices; wear a hat made in Philadelphia, hitch a Missouri mule, fed on Iowa corn, or a Detroit auto filled with Texas oil and we're farmers, work like all day on a farm covered with Florida fertilizer and a Connecticut mortgage."
"Not only that, but we send our fire insurance money to San Francisco, Hartford, London and Shanghai, and at night crawl under a New Jersey blanket and are kept awake by a dog or a cat—the only home products around."
Of course this is overdrawn, but it brings out a moral of "Trade at Home first" in a humorous vein. It shows further how interdependent all our cities and states are for subsistence and the general necessities of life.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Dullness again characterized the stock market today, the usual leaders fluctuating within a narrow range. Overcoming of a few weak spots among the specialties, notably James Brothers Tea, which dropped 3 1/2 points to 18, the lowest of the year, had a depressing influence on other shares for which there was a small speculative market.

Coalers became quiet after an initial display of strength, but the independent stocks which were heavy at the start, except slowly upward under the leadership of Republic and Crucible. Some of the Merchandise issues exhibited moderate strength, Woolworth rising 3 points. The closing was irregular. Sales approximately 300,000 shares.

Virtual settlement of the anthracite coal dispute imparted a firm tone to leading stocks at the opening of today's stock market, although heaviness was still apparent in a few other and commodity specialties. Hard coal carriers were in good demand, Delaware and Hudson rising 1 1/2 and Reading one.

Considerable irregularity developed in the later dealings, with pressure being exerted against the independent stocks and such stocks as American Smelting, Jones Brothers Tea, American Tobacco and United States Rubber first preferred, all of a point or more. Dupont and Woolworth were strong and good gains in the later dealings. Marine preferred and Reynolds Springs preferred advanced 2 points and then fell back 1/2. Foreign exchanges opened irregular.

To Reopen Coal Mines

Continued.—conciliation proceedings would be required to render a decision within 30 days after submission of issues; revision of existing rate sheets and estimates of new ones at certain mines, these sheets being the documents which fix pay rates for contract miners; increased wages for mechanics employed at mining premises for weighing coal instead of measuring it to determine miners' earnings; and for a new standard of overtime payments.

Governor Pinchot said when the final meeting adjourned noon midday that the program had been as good as could be expected considering the complexity of questions at issue, and that both sides were showing a strong disposition to reach a conclusion.

The possibility of getting an increase for the miners' laborers, in addition to the flat 10 per cent given all employees, was said to have taken up much of the time in the session.

Gov. Pinchot's Statement

Governor Pinchot's announcement after the afternoon conference yesterday that the miners' union representatives had agreed to take a 10 per cent wage increase and abandon their demand for "check-off" collection of union dues came at the end of a brief session of the operations policy committee and the union officials.

"It is with the keenest satisfaction that I tell you I am authorized to announce that both miners and operators have now agreed upon the four points of the basis of settlement," declared Gov. Pinchot, who was interviewed in supplementary statements issued Thursday. The governor told the assembled newspapermen, "Negotiations for drawing up a new wage contract are to proceed after 7 p. m. in my office, between the miners' representatives and the operators' committee, and I confidently expect a prompt and complete agreement upon all details."

"In making this announcement, I desire to call particular attention to the spirit of fairness and forbearance on the part of both miners and operators with which my efforts to reach a settlement have been met."

Lewis Makes Statement.—Mr. Lewis followed him in a brief address.

"In acquiescing to the four basic points of Governor Pinchot's proposal, the representatives of the mine workers have been fully conscious of the public interest. The mine workers proposed to fight to the finish with the anthracite operators and had every reason to believe that the end of such a contest would have brought fulfillment of their major demands."

"We have, however, the natural desire to do so with good citizenship and to avoid the public embarrassment and discomfort and to inevitable suffering that would accompany a conflict between forces of such magnitude."

"We do not feel the wage increase proposed is sufficient to compensate the mine workers for the particular hardships they render in producing anthracite under the most embarrassing conditions they encounter. Neither do we believe a 10 per cent increase is sufficient to enable them to meet their family needs and other requirements."

"We feel that our action in this instance is voluntarily agreeing to the spirited proposals of Governor Pinchot and the commendation of the American people for the degree of consideration for the ills from which they suffer."

Puzzling Plays

By Billy Evans

With the passing of the spitball and all forms of trick deliveries, also came the ban on sliding the ball on the base to help dry the bases and help the pitcher get a runner out. The rule called for the abolition of any and all foreign substances and was placed on the books in 1920. Since that time, the game has been a new style and passed out of the hands of the old-time players and into the hands of the new players.

The New York Yankees are now four games ahead of the Reds and the Pittsburghers one behind.

The feature of play in the majors yesterday was a no-run, no-hit game pitched by Howard Ehmke of the Boston Red Sox. In Philadelphia, the Athletics beat 4 to 0, Ehmke's feat which helped considerably by an error of Galloway's.

The Pirates went down before the Cubs 6 to 4 in Pittsburgh. Adams and Bagby were knocked from the box in the first frame, when the Chicago batsmen took all their six runs at once.

Chicago also won in the American League, defeating St. Louis 7 to 2.

The Robins lost the opening game of the series in Boston, 11 to 3, when the effect of Lostonious threw all reserve to one side and chased each other around the bases. Dazzy Vance, the star Brooklyn pitcher, was roughly handled by the Braves, who hammered him for fourteen hits in five innings.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND

What is probably one of the best moving picture programs ever presented to a Lowell audience will be seen at the Strand Theatre all of next week, beginning with a matinee tomorrow afternoon. Two famous stage successes will be presented in the afternoon and that alone is sufficient to warrant a stellar performance.

For the first four days, beginning with the Sunday matinee, the feature attraction will be "The Broken Wing," which introduces rare thrills and sweet romance, and the running attraction has "The Lonely Road," with Katherine MacDonald in the leading role. "Uncle Ben's Gift," a Gump comedy, and the "International News" will help to complete the program for the first four days.

For the latter part of the week, beginning with the Thursday matinee, there is "Within the Law," a production which had originally been booked at the theatre for seven days but which was changed to the three-day limit because of the Strand policy of changing shows recently adopted. This is a picture which might well run the full week in any theatre and those fortunate enough to witness its showing in Lowell will come away singing its praises in no uncertain manner.

It is rarely that one finds the combination of attractions that are to be found in the production, "The Broken Wing," is the dramatic version of the well-known stage play which enjoyed many years before Broadway audiences and in it there are such stars as Kenneth Harlan, Milton Cooper, Walter Long, Miss DuPont, Richard Tucker and Edwin J. Brady. It was produced under the direction of Tom Forman.

The story gets away to a spectacular beginning when Philip Marvin, rich New Yorker, undertakes a record air flight. Near the Mexican border his plane goes wrong, his mechanism falls overboard and his machine drops into the home of a village, present Spanish maid, who has given the powers that be just 20 days to provide her with an American husband. Action develops rapidly and we would spoil your conception of the story if we told you any more about it.

"The Lonely Road," which is Katherine MacDonald's starting vehicle, provides a delightful contrast from the running attraction, inasmuch as it is a drama in which the beautiful actress is seen at her very best. This is a dramatic picture of the romance of a beautiful woman whose husband believes she should be of the climbing type, later on, however, is a responsibility and little personal liberty.

In the features for the three last days of the week, the production, "Within the Law," stands foremost among all others. Norma Talmadge is the star in this great attraction and she is supported by the best cast under the direction of Frank Lloyd. Miss Talmadge is depicted as an adventurer who is endeavoring to "get even" with an unjust employer who has sent her to jail for a theft which she did not commit, and her role in so doing leads her through many emotional scenes which the big star fills with great dramatic power.

The other week-end feature is entitled "Man's Size," in which William Russell is seen at a much rarer. It is a Fox production introducing a sequel of the frozen north in which an explorer returns unexpectedly to find that he had been reported dead and that his wife had married an intriguing partner. Russell carries his part with great skill and great interest for the red-headed manner in which he shines.

—and humanity. The part of the small boy is played by Eugene Granger, the world's youngest actor. The story deals with his life before and after the death of his mother, how she has brought him to have faith always in the future, and this faith saves him from complete destruction a community which had shunned him.

On either the biggest thrill in "The Town That Forgot God" comes when the big flood and storm scene is shown. It is without question the greatest storm and flood scene ever shown on any stage or screen. An entire village is swept away before the audience's eyes.

The New York Review, one of the most critical papers, says: "The most realistic storm and flood scene ever presented upon the screen has been lost at the Astor theatre this week when William Fox for the first time presented the new Harry Millarde production, 'The Town That Forgot God'."

One of the best pictures this company ever produced. The scene very swept all the spectators from their seats. This storm and flood scene is the crowning achievement in the way of spectacular water and storm effects ever shown on the screen."

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

Stan Stanley Will Come From the Audience Next Week and Will Entertain in Goodly Style

"The Virginia Judge" will hold the fort three tomorrow at B. F. The story from his tripping about the world, "The Judge" is none other than Walter C. Kelley, famous vaudeville. The remainder of the bill will consist of Sonia Meritt, Miss Jason and Harrigan, Corrigan and Waters, Daisy Spooner & Co., and a special feature picture.

Stan Stanley is coming back to us next week after an absence of five years. He will have on his own like a good healthy breeze and what he says and does will serve as a tonic. For Stan Stanley has an original manner about him. Somewhat exaggerated in his comedy, he may be relied upon always to do the unusual and unexpected. WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 8.—The 20 days of official mourning for the late President Harding ended Monday; flags again fly at full staff from the White House, the capitol and all other government buildings, fairs and reservations. President Coolidge, members of his cabinet and the White House staff have removed the black bands from the sleeves. Mrs. Coolidge will again don widow's weeds and the outward semblance of grief at the death of their friend and chief will be a thing of the past from now on. But in their hearts, as well as in the hearts of thousands who knew and loved him well, no less homage and reverence will be accorded his memory. Again the cry is "The king is dead; long live the king."

We are told that the White House will observe no formal gaieties after the New Year. This is quite in keeping with the fine instincts and unselfishness of the Coolidges. When the time comes they will open the doors of the White House wide with cordial welcome to the official circle and Mrs. Coolidge will shine unrivalled as a hostess whose charm, tact, good taste and warmheartedness are everywhere recognized.

That the Coolidges do not propose to have their sons spoiled by political honors showered on the family is well shown from the fact that John and Calvin spent their vacation exactly as did sons of men unknown to fame. They worked respectively in the hay fields as a farm hand and took the hardships of intensive training at Camp Devens. The president's father said this week: "My son always finished whatever work he began. I never had to remind him to do so or tell him the same thing twice. He will do that sort of a job now. It's just as the president himself has said his motto in life is 'Do the day's work' and he is living up to it by keeping his desk clear of routine work, even in the stress of these strenuous and troublous days. The only danger seems to be that the country will expect him to perform miracles or otherwise."

Contest for Presidency of Senate
Who will be the next president of the Senate? With the lifting of Mr. Coolidge into the presidential chair that office became vacant, although the president pro tempore is still in office. But the vacancy of permanent president of the Senate must be filled by vote of the Senate. It is said that Senator Cummins of Iowa, though appreciating the honor of being raised from his present office of president pro tempore to that of permanent president, may not desire to do so on account of ill health. In that case Senator Moses of New Hampshire will be elected to that high office unless the wave of jealousy now flooding the country over New England's prestige and power in national affairs, sweeps his chances away. Senator Curtis of Kansas, now assistant floor leader to Senator Lodge, would probably be the one to step out. Moses and Curtis are fast personal friends, and it would be a case of sectionalism only, if they were pitted against each other, for their senatorial friends and supporters belong to the same class and type of men. Not only does New England carry off the cream of committee positions, the speakership of the House, and the leadership of the Senate, but in addition to the president, it has the secretary of war, Mr. Weeks, Mr. Taft of Connecticut is chief justice of the supreme court, Mr. Brandies and Mr. Holmes of Massachusetts on the supreme bench, and a great number of lesser but important federal offices are held by New Englanders—all of which may tend to displacing Mr. Coolidge in his selection to the speakership and also Mr. Moses, when it comes to selecting a president of the Senate. But that the latter is the best qualified man in the Senate to rule over it during the turbulent days that are sure to come in the 68th Congress, is not disputed.

Incidentally it may be interesting to know that the president of the Senate, and the full vice presidential salary, which is $12,000 a year, and that he is furnished with an automobile, chauffeur, etc. Moreover, his power in Congress is exactly the same as that of a duly elected vice-president of the United States.

Simple Life of Coolidges
President and Mrs. Coolidge are living the simple life, even though now installed in the White House with its scores of servants and splendid surroundings. Simple New England meals are served. Comfortable, but patterned after good old fashioned small towns in New England, as far as it is possible to do so. And there is no burning of the midnight oil of the presidential family. When the clock strikes 10 all is said to be quiet and the second man has closed presidential eyes with the same sleepy Eugene Field so delightfully described in his child poems.

No Extra Session
No one seems to expect an extra session of Congress, though of course calling it early is not one of the impossibilities.

In fact, about everybody has intimated what President Coolidge will do, except Mr. Coolidge himself, who still adheres pretty closely to his famous "wise old owl" motto.

Congress Delegation in Europe
So many of the Massachusetts congressional delegation have been overseas this summer, that they will be a minority on the real condition of affairs in Europe.

It will be interesting to note what Senator David I. Walsh and Congressman Rogers have to say on the subject, viewing the situation, as they do, from opposite political viewpoints.

And with Senator Walsh a democratic leader in the Senate and Mr. Rogers a ranking member on the foreign affairs committee of the House, their views will be listened to with unusual attention and interest, by men of both political parties.

The case of Barney Banks of Lowell, charged with the murder of Police Officer Arthur J. Bower of Methuen on the Lawrence-Lowell boulevard, will be presented to the Essex county grand jury when that body convenes for the fall sitting in the Lawrence court house next Monday.

Banks is still confined at the Lawrence jail. It was at first deemed advisable to remove him to the Danvers state hospital where he would be placed under observation, but later plans were changed.

Since the clues that were followed up in Lowell proved to be groundless, there have been no material developments in the investigation of the shooting of the police officer, and the work is now practically at a standstill.

Hosiery Mills Watch Japanese Silk Market

MILLS FIND DEMAND FOR WOMEN'S WEAR PLEASING BUT MEN ARE BUYING SLOWLY

American Woolen Announces Curtailment in Ayer Mill, on Men's Goods Lines, But Bay State is Understood to be Heavily Booked for Women's Apparel

With the surplus stocks the largest since last February and the response thus far to the opening of new lines found to be somewhat weak, the woolen mills are watching the market closely.

American Woolen has announced a curtailment at the Ayer mill which has been changed to a four-day schedule of production. Inability at the recent opening to secure sufficient orders to warrant full-time production is cited by William M. Wood, president of the company, as the reason for curtailment, which amounts to 15 1/2 hours a week.

The Ayer mill is one of the corporation's largest units and is one of the biggest producers of men's wear. Since the opening of light weight lines buying has been indifferent and this curtailment is a reflection therefrom. It is understood that this is the only curtailment contemplated by the American Woolen at this time. The Wood and Fulton mills are working on heavy weight goods and the orders are said to date well ahead.

Heavy buying of fall underwear is looked for immediately. Retailers that have been purchased with the almost conservatism and unless they loosen their purse-strings a heavy weight underwear shortage is almost as likely as the new annual coal shortage. Mills have kept the conservative pace of buyers and are looking forward to a healthy period of orders to commence at once.

The Merchants National bank of Boston in their monthly review state openings of new lines of women and worsted goods have failed to stimulate the demand for raw wool and current prices are nearly 10 per cent lower than peak prices of last spring. "It is understood that buyers have been content for only a moderate quantity of men's goods but have placed a large volume of orders for women's wear," says the review. "The price advances on fall goods have strengthened the confidence of buyers as to values of fall goods," continues the report. "These advances are generally regarded as very reasonable, considering the increases in raw material and labor costs."

A cheerful angle is given to the report in the statement, "The strong position of women's wear is shown by the fact that the largest manufacturing organizations are almost without exception effecting their opening, that it had overstepped its production and was obliged to withdraw its line."

In local circles this assumed to refer to the American Woolen company which is known to have found a tremendous business in women's wear. Bay State mill is an women's wear and is understood to be heavily booked for many months ahead.

NEW CALIFORNIA MILL RUSH

Cotton Corporation Formed in Los Angeles With Four Million Dollar Capitalization

Laying the foundation for the manufacture of cotton goods in Los Angeles, the Los Angeles cotton mills, capitalized at $4,000,000, is about to begin business operations. The erection of a first unit of the factory, which is to be within 15 minutes of the center of the city, will be started within the next few days.

W. H. White, chief executive of the Westclothes Co. for the Pacific coast, is president of the organization. Edward M. Fowler, president of the Edward M. Fowler Co., cotton merchants, is vice president, and J. R. Rogers, vice president of the Rogers & Rogers Co., is treasurer. The following men, M. H. Merrill of Boston, William Lacey, Gurney Newell, Frank Gilliland and Robert A. Craft.

The first unit will be equipped with 100,000 spindles and will have a branch dye house in connection with it. Other units will be erected as rapidly as business development permits.

Light weight twills, cotton flannels, organdies, sheetings, etc., will be turned out by the new mills. The goods and heavy goods that are being manufactured by the Imperial cotton mills, the first cotton mills to be established in Los Angeles, are being avoided by the new company so that, according to announcements, enters its field without any local competition whatever.

While no stock has been put on the market yet, 25 per cent of the first $1,000,000 worth of stock to be offered for sale has already been subscribed. In addition, it is stated, a considerable working capital has been placed at the disposal of the company for its first two years.

Men connected with the venture, and business men at large in Los Angeles, believe the cotton goods future of Los Angeles is very bright. The products will be secured in California, Arizona and from the south itself. In addition to the cotton situation of the south, backers of the mills point out advantageous conditions and the great necessity to provide work for the steadily increasing population.

The chamber of commerce figures show that 16,000 people a month have been added as permanent residents during the past year, and this is one of the important factors in the growth of industry in Los Angeles. Cheap power rates and good labor conditions are also pointed out as assets in the new mill project.

Lowell cotton receipts by rail during the month of August amounted to 1,600 bales, according to figures available in the local freight office. This light supply was caused by some brought in by truck over the road although this quantity is understood to have been small.

Local Manufacturers Not Buying Now As All Efforts Are Turned to Disposing of Stocks

With Large Stocks on Hand Awaiting Sales, Mills Are Not in the Market for Raw Material So Will Keep "Hands Off" During Present Crisis—Woolen and Worst- ed Trades Alert to Chance for Substitution if Any Silk Shortage Should Prove Resultant of Catastrophe—Silk Men Optimistic

The recent catastrophe in Yokohama has not caused any great immediate concern in the local market and Lowell hosiery mills are doing no buying of raw silks at this time. Trading in raw silk has been suspended for five days pending arrival of complete reports on the effect of the disaster upon the silk industry and it is generally expected that speculative buying at this time would prove very risky.

Business with the Lowell hosiery mills is passing through the end of the summer stagnation stage and the new seasonal markets are just commencing to open up. With good stocks of finished goods on hand and a sizable supply of raw materials the market is being watched carefully but no dealing in raw material has been attempted.

It is the consensus of opinion that speculation in the silk market should be strictly discouraged at this time. No reason for a stiff rise in the market in the near future is seen by the wise ones who feel inclined to believe that if buyers maintain a sane attitude the situation will be fully recovered from within four or five weeks.

Urgo No Speculation

Their attitude is reflected in letters the apparel manufacturers' associations have sent out to all their members, strongly urging them not to get excited and to refrain absolutely from speculation.

There are understood to be at this time 2,000 bales of raw silk in storage in this country. Eighty per cent of the producing region of Japan was unaffected by the quake and is turning out over 700 bales daily. The worst damage possible, allowing that everything in Yokohama was destroyed, would not be over 75,000 bales—this including Yokohama stock, the autumn stock and cocoons. It is estimated that a stoppage of shipments would not last over a month and that six weeks should see the market in raw silk at normal.

"I am optimistic regarding business conditions in this country," said Frank Wood of American Woolen Co., "any man in America who is not optimistic should have his liver examined, because there is something the matter with it. "While the Japanese calamity is very great in its magnitude and is greatly to be deplored, it will not retard the progress and progress of America and the world. Three hundred thousand people killed and the number injured are too small, when compared with the world's total population, to make any considerable difference. Japan is one of the wealthiest nations of the earth, and they will soon be on their feet again. She made a great deal since the war, and she is amply able to take care of herself in all ways."

SETTLE SILK STRIKE IN NEW BEDFORD

Samuel Ross, president of the male spinners' union and member of the state board of arbitration and conciliation, sitting as mediator, has adjusted the strike of silk weavers in the Gill mills at New Bedford in a manner acceptable to both sides and the strike has been officially called off.

At the time the strike was called it was stated the weavers were not satisfied that no difference in wages was allowed for handling hard and soft silks although such allowance was made in Boston and other silk centers. The basis of settlement calls for an increase of three-quarters of a cent a yard in weaving large bobbins of all sizes and improved warp yarns. This new arrangement will be tried for a two-month period and if all acceptable will be continued in force.

PRICE ADVANCES AND INCREASED ORDERS CHEER MILLS AS ORDERS ARE PLACED BY BUYERS

Warning Sounded Against Premature Enthusiasm as Advent of Better Business is Heralded—Possibility of Reverting to Full-Help Full-Time Schedules in Near Future—Market Response Steady

Danger of further curtailment in cotton goods circles is allayed by changes for the better. Employment is slowly but steadily increasing. Substantial sales in the past ten days both for immediate shipment from stock and for contracts on fall deliveries. Selling prices are low in comparison with replacement costs but manufacturers have been encouraged by their ability to secure advances as the buying movement progresses. On some sheetings and knit cloths, prices have been advanced a full half cent from the low point.

The print cloth market is gradually moving into fine goods and, to some extent, yarns. All indications point to a proper resumption of business. While mill men prefer not to be forecast three weeks ago, good buying during the last week in August has had the effect of stabilizing a condition that was verging on the demoralization point. The worst aspects have been met with the advent of better business and the most cheer- ful attitude abroad this year is now evident throughout mill circles.

Since the middle of the month price advances, although slow, have been steady and buyers seem to have reached a realization that materials will not get any cheaper and this has added momentum to price gains. The outstanding reassuring point of the week's business has been the ability of finished goods to sustain their prices, even to add slight fractions. The policy of the mills in view of maintaining firm prices despite downward pressure in some quarters, especially below the actual cost of production, has been the natural course of events that the buyers should sacrifice prices they face the season with a pleasing knowledge that they are not being deceived. Refusing higher than it was at the time of the general price-cutting in some quarters, the mills have a large volume of goods that have been held back from being dropped and in view of many of the mills shut on the market at earlier periods, the volume of business that is now being returned has been minimized.

Failure of the fine goods demand to reach any great volume is blamed on the transitory period from fancy to plain and standard goods. Increased inquiries regarding standard commodities have been noticed. Perhaps the main factor in holding the industry back at this time from making a determined advance is the crop condition estimate. As this is determined to the satisfaction of the factor, the latter is still somewhat tentative. Several mills a healthy resumption is being to accept long-time contracts quite certain.

ACCEPT CUT IN PAY

Laconia Hosiery Mill Workers

All at Places When Shops Resume Production

LACONIA, N. H., Sept. 8.—All of the 1,200 employees of the hosiery mills in this city, whose increases in wages effective last spring were canceled Sept. 4, were reported to be at the mills Tuesday morning. However, it is stated that the workers will soon demand the restoration of their wages and that the restoration be made retroactive to the date when the cancellation became effective. The wage increases were granted on May 25.

The mills in which "adjustment in pay" were granted last spring are H. H. Woods & Co., employing 250, and which granted an increase of 12 1/2 per cent; Delapack Mills corporation, with 225 employees, which gave a 12 1/2 per cent increase; Tilton mills, employing 250; Clowin mills, employing about 175, which advanced pay scales in some departments; J. W. Basile & Co., with 150 employees, which granted a scale increase of 12 1/2 per cent; Delapack Stocking Co., employing 100; Pittman's mill, employing about 200.

One mill owner stated that "the wage reduction is not a decrease in wages, but rather a cancellation of the increase that will fix wages where they were before May 25."

Mary Garden Comes to Lowell Oct. 1

MARY GARDEN

For its third season in Lowell, the star concert series, which already has presented Galli-Curci, Geraldine Farrar, Sergei Rachmaninoff, Julia Claussen, Arthur Middleton, the Boston Symphony orchestra, and Fritz Kreisler twice, announces Mary Garden for its opening concert.

Monday, October first, is the date set for the concert at the Memorial Auditorium for the famous prima donna. Appearing with her is Guita Casali, cellist, who is highly regarded as a virtuoso in his own right. The program is to include numbers in which he will play an obligato.

Mary Garden has been described as the most famous woman in opera the world today. With Galli-Curci she is the highest saluted woman in opera. Their fee is the same, $5,000 for each performance. Twice during last winter's Boston engagement of the Chicago Opera company the music of her name brought capacity houses to the opera. They were the only two capacity houses of the engagement and the box office receipts were $14,000 and more each night.

"Mary Garden" writes one critic of the opera and concert world in reviewing the history of both for the last 25 years:—

"They have given up the attempt to describe her, so they simply call her 'Our Mary'."

"Our Mary" she is for the American people. She dawned upon America as a new sensation, and she has been radiating new sensations ever since. Her art is so original and many-sided that it is constantly presenting a novel, surprising aspect. Such art is genius.

PLAN TO SNAP PHOTO OF SUN

Scientists Have Waited Two Years for Eclipse of Next Monday

Will Last But a Few Seconds More Than Three Full Minutes

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

N.E.A. Service Writer

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 8.—When on Monday "the moon swallows the sun" as a solar eclipse was once fearfully interpreted, the mysteries of the sun's halo or corona will be probed by the most powerful astronomical instruments ever assembled for such an event.

Along the path of total shadow, sweeping across the Pacific, skirting the extreme southwestern edge of California and on through Mexico, a dozen famous observatories have established field stations. The eclipse will last slightly more than three minutes in any spot, and elaborate rehearsals and precautions have been made to make the most of the precious seconds.

It is during such brief intervals, often spaced years apart in civilized lands, that the astronomical world has a chance to make records of the sun's zodiacal outer envelope, then clearly distinguishable from the main solar body which is screened by the moon.

And it is from such records that valuable additions are being made to the scientific story of the universe and of human life on this little grain of orbiting dust.

Outer Envelope Mysterious

The exact nature of the sun's outer envelope has yet to be definitely determined, and the present eclipse will be utilized chiefly for that purpose, just as the one last year, observed in Australia, was studied chiefly as a test of the Einstein theory of curved stellar light. Extending some two and a half million miles from the sun's surface, more or less at different periods, is this gaseous envelope, unlike anything on earth. It has heat and luminosity.

Several instruments never before trained upon the corona during an eclipse are to be employed by the Mt. Wilson observatory field staff, at San Diego, such as the interferometer and the radiometer, the latter so delicately sensitive to heat that it would react to a candlestick 300 miles distant.

It is unlikely that anything of an immediate popular interest will be determined, but the expected new data on the constituency, size, density, heat radiation, rate and direction of revolution of the sun's halo will eventually filter through the science sieve to the public ken.

Make Elaborate Preparations

The most complete set of instruments will be utilized by the Mount Wilson representatives at Point Loma and Lakeside, near San Diego. The Point Loma instruments all mounted on one revolving table, include direct photograph telescope, spectrographs, interferometer and radiometer. At the instant the moon's surface begins to "launch" itself into the temporary mid-slide over the sun, a timekeeper will begin to toll off the seconds with each of a score of men taking his cue for the insertion and removal of plates and the necessary three exposures.

Weather Important Factor

Results will depend upon the state of the weather. Clouds would vitiate most of the elaborate preparations. This same position eclipse will occur again Sept. 21, 1947, and will then be total through the region of the Philippines and Siam, each recurrence moving westward by about 15 hours. The last was seen in Egypt in 1905. Other positions have, however, occurred since then.

"The spectrum of the sun's corona will probably be the most interesting and fruitful result from the scientific standpoint," said Prof. A. H. Joy, secretary of the Mount Vernon observatory and prominent astronomer, from whom I have most of the foregoing information.

"If we can get the wave lengths of the corona gas, then by the atomic theory we can determine its composition. We already have some of the spectroscopic lines, but many are missing."

"We also expect to get spectroscopic records of the reversing layer, or lower stratum of the sun's atmosphere. And the radiometer should give us the total heat radiations of different portions of the corona."

Begins in Boston at 4:44
BOSTON, Sept. 8.—The solar eclipse on Monday, which will be total in some parts of the country, will be only partial in Boston.

For Boston the eclipse will begin at 4:41 p. m. At 4:57, just 16 minutes later, approximately one-half of the sun's disk will be obscured by the moon. At 4:55 the observation will end.

While the eclipse is in progress the surrounding sky will be unusually starry. The planets Saturn, Jupiter, Mercury, Mars and Venus will be visible, as well as the fixed stars Rigel, Spica and others of lesser importance.

COLUMBUS GIRL "MISS AMERICA"

Miss Mary Campbell, Wins
Beauty Contest for Second
Consecutive Year

Adjudget Queen of 75 Fair
Contestants in Atlantic City
Contest

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 8.—Miss Mary Katherine Campbell of Columbus, O., today backed in the knowledge that her beauty had yesterday won from her representative male judges of the annual fall beauty test the right to bear for the second consecutive year the title of Miss America, queen of 75 fair contestants from as many cities.

Miss Campbell, 17, with a winning smile, golden-brown hair and an athletic grace of form, swept everything before her when she walked, dressed in a one-piece orange bathing suit, by the judge's box on the million dollar pier.

While the bathing suit parade was but one of three tests, all of which were to count in the final judgment, the judges quickly waived formalities when Miss Campbell appeared, although she had no place in either the roller chair parade or evening gown exhibitions of champions.

The victory was the second in succession for the Columbus maiden.

Miss Ethelda Kenyon of Brooklyn, Miss Heather Eubank Walker of Coney Island, Miss Charlotte Nash of St. Louis, and Miss Marian Green of Philadelphia were the runners-up.

LOWELL MEN TO TRY BOSTON LIGHT SWIM

Michael J. Ryan, well known member of the local police department and a swimmer of no mean ability, is entered in the Boston Light swim to be held tomorrow over that famous course. Mr. Ryan has trained consistently for this event and is confident in view of his past performances, of winning first honors. About a month ago, "Mike" finished second in a similar swim and last first place honors because of a fluke on the part of the officials and his own handlers. Tomorrow the big traffic officer intends to have his own pilot and an experienced group of assistants. It was Ryan himself as being in perfect condition for the swim and will drive from Charlestown bridge with a large cortege of accomplished swimmers tomorrow morning, confident of besting the field.

Cruised Mothers Call Children

OSAKA, Sept. 5 (by the Associated Press). Delayed by the earthquake, a million refugees were camped around the imperial palace today. A countless host of refugees formed a line two miles long, each to receive one piece of rice ball. For many hours the line moved forward monotonously, its length seemingly undiminished.

Cruised mothers were calling the names of lost children. Fathers of missing children hoisted placards giving the names and addresses that little ones might, perhaps, be returned to them.

Two foreign warships to reach Japan after the earthquake was the American destroyer No. 211, which arrived at Kobe today. The captain of this vessel conferred with Kobe authorities regarding the most efficient means to be taken.

The American steamer City of Spokane left Kobe today for Yokohama, with 100 tons of wheat to be used in relief work.

The Kure chamber of commerce has accepted the proposal of the governor of Nagasaki prefecture, centre of the silk industry to make Kobe the silk exporting port of Japan as the result of conditions in Yokohama.

Relief Fund Grows. The American Red Cross pressed forward relief measures today for the Japanese earthquake sufferers the nation continued to swell its relief fund. Early tabulation today showed the total nearing the half way mark of the $5,000,000 minimum sought.

In connection with relief fund contributions the bureau of internal revenue pointed out in a statement today that under the revenue act of 1921 these may be deducted by an individual in computing his next taxable income. An individual member of a partnership also may deduct his proportionate share of the contribution made by the partnership. In both cases, the deduction for total charitable donations is limited to 15 per cent of the taxpayer's net income.

ROUTINE SESSION OF DISTRICT COURT

"You'll never see me again, Judge," were the parting words of James J. McCormick in district court this morning when a three months' sentence for drunkenness was suspended for six months. McCormick promised to take the pledge and abstain from alcoholic beverages in the future. He was arrested last night by Officer Arthur Dwyer on the complaint of his wife who testified this morning that he was "driving her to death."

Frank Zarak also received a suspended sentence of six months for drunkenness. His wife told the court that he had been drinking continually of late and that he abused her unmercifully at times. She desired that he be committed to jail, but in view of the fact that it was his first offence, the suspended sentence was imposed.

For operating an automobile without a license, Allen M. Spenser was fined $10. A finding of not guilty was returned in the case of George B. Kittredge of Lawrence, charged with operating without a registration.

John Minelli was ordered discharged when Federal Officer John Hall withdrew a complaint of threatening. On August 13, the officer went to Minelli's house with a search warrant when Minelli pointed a gun at him and threatened to shoot.

Charges of breaking and entering and larceny, preferred against Edmund J. Tossan, were continued until Sept. 15. Adolphe Larreniere, for drunkenness, was continued until Oct. 8. On an illegal keeping charge, William Larkley was granted a continuance until next Saturday.

Dr. reached neighboring cities, surgeons, physicians and nurses began to organize relief corps.

Hundreds of refugees who fled from Tokyo and Yokohama by rail and water are reaching here daily and the problem of caring for them is taxing the ingenuity of the authorities. Most of them are virtually destitute.

NOT TO LOCATE IN NO. CAROLINA

Appleton Co. Believed to
Have Allowed Building
Options to Lapse

News Gladly Received by
Textile Workers in This
City

Word reached Lowell from Winston-Salem, N. C., today by indirect route through New York, that the Appleton mills of this city have given up plans of locating in the vicinity of Asheville. According to reports, options on several mills in the locality, taken by the Appleton corporation some time ago, have been permitted to expire without action this past week. The report that the options were open to extension and this privilege was not seized upon is taken to infer the Appleton has given up all plans of locating in the south.

Reports from Winston-Salem state that the Appleton has retained an option on one mill in Henderson county in local circles the belief is expressed that this option is held as a threat while in some quarters the attitude is taken that this option was probably originally taken for a longer period than the other options and will also be permitted to expire when the option period elapses.

John Hanley, president of the Lowell labor council and member of the executive board of the Textile Workers of America, declined to comment until he has a more definite knowledge of the situation. He had been advised of the report that the Appleton options had been permitted to expire without action and said he might have a statement to make Monday.

He thought it would be more fitting for the public to first hear what the Appleton heads cared to say provided they desired to comment.

Labor men view the news with pleasure and hold that it shows the Appleton company, after an exhaustive investigation covering all details, has decided that no ultimate profit would result in moving south or in starting mills in the south.

Present conditions in any state organized labor will follow capital into new fields is held by them to be an important factor in the decisions of northern mill men as affects entry into the south.

Elmer L. Rowen, agent for the Appleton mill, was interviewed by a reporter for The Sun this morning and declined to comment on the report.

"I couldn't say anything; I don't know anything about it," said Mr. Rowen. "By that you mean the matter is handled entirely by the treasurer of the concern from the Boston office," he was asked.

"Why, yes. Anything he said would come from the treasurer," he replied. "I can't say anything because I don't know about it."
